ADMINISTRATION

A large share of the University's success and development may be attributed to the cooperation of members of the Board of Directors. The University's origin is traceable to a bequest of a tract of land and a sum of money by Jesup W. Scott in 1872. Mr. Scott specified that the gift was to be used in developing a school which he called the School of Arts and Trades. From this beginning came the University of Toledo. Its status as a University was endangered subsequently when the Board of Education made an attempt to assume control and to transform it into a vocational school. This attempt was fought vigorously by William H. Tucker, then a member of the University's Board of Directors. Mr. Tucker, an attorney, held his ground against the members of the Board of Education. After a fierce controversy the supreme court of Ohio awarded control of the University to the Board of Directors. In remembrance of the time and effort spent by Mr. Tucker to insure the development of the University as an institution of higher learning, one of the two new faculty apartments has been named Tucker Hall. In honor of the founder of the University, the other has been named Scott Hall.

NASH AND MacKINNON

A friendship grown out of a relationship created through the cooperative efforts of solving University problems was cut all too short by the death of Dean Lee W. MacKinnon. It was fortunate for the University that Raymond L. Carter, who had worked very closely with Dean MacKinnon, was able to take over the duties formerly Dean MacKinnon's.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Once again, on September 10, 11, and 12, the staid and venerable halls of our University rang to the excited discussion and questions of another group of "frenzied Freshmen." Freshman Week was in session, and even the attempted sophistication and serenity of high school graduates could not resist the unlimited exuberance brought on by the beginnings of a four-year search for further intelligence and culture. All meetings and activities during Freshman Week, were under the supervision of Dr. Carter, director of the Junior College.

Shortly after the passing of Freshman Week, election of officers was held, the results of which were: Ray Cronin, president; Norman Severin, vice-president; Robert Wade, treasurer; Jack Melvin, secretary, and Don Berozet and Jane Bristol, student council representatives.

The Freshman Dance marked the opening of the University social season on November 16, with music furnished by Billy Sims and His Admirals at the Trianon Ballroom. The committee in charge included Junior Reynold and Jim Knisely; cochairmen, Barbara Miller, Marjorie Devlin, Don Wagner, June Crafts and Don Enright.

This year's Freshman Class has come to be a vital part of the University of Toledo, and has done much to enhance the growing prestige of our institution. The Freshmen presented an addition of 17 students to the Honor Roll, ranking second in all classes and tying the Sophomores. It may truly be said that the Class of '38 has succeeded in creating a greater and more loyal spirit into every department and activity of the University.

Severin,
Wade,
Melvin.

THE CLASS

SOPHOMORE CLASS

And hence, we pass on the the lordly and sophisticated Sophomore —“Monarch of all he surveys”—with the exception of the Juniors and Seniors. The Sophomore Class has been extremely active in University affairs during the year 1934-35. Its members have become an integral and vital part of many departments of importance to University life: as service scholars and FERA assistants in the various departments and colleges, in fraternities and sororities, athletics, dramatics, and many others.

As a result of the general elections held late in the second semester last year, the following people were chosen to guide the destiny of the Sophomore Class: Ray Rupp, president; Helen Heiner, vice-president; Alice Williams, secretary; and Jack Striggow, treasurer. The Sophomore representatives to the Student Council were Hal Jennings and Lucille Hammontree.

Appearing as a welcome variation from the monotony of the classroom, the Sophomore Prom, held on January 25, was a huge success, and helped erase the harrassed looks on many students' faces following the final examination period of the first semester. Lew Waterman's Orchestra furnished excellent music for the dancers, under the direction of "Whitie" Gobrecht. The committee in charge consisted of Dean St. Clair, chairman, and Maryellen Schneider, Janet Boyer, Betty Lee, Eleanor Horn, Howard White, Franz Arend, and James Baskin.

As this edition of the Blockhouse goes to press, the majority of our "sophisticated Sophomores" will cast off the unpretentious cloak of the underclassman, and don the regal and learned robes of the upperclassman, marking the attainment of the halfway mark in their college careers.

Striggow,
Williams,
Heiner,
Rupp.

THE CLASS

JUNIOR CLASS

After two years of working together as a group, the Junior Class has come to be respected for its worth-while contributions to University life. Needless to say, there is not a single University activity of importance in which some member of the Junior Class is not represented.

The Juniors have established themselves as the leading scholars on the campus this year by having more members than any other class on the Honor Roll—a total of 21.

The chosen leaders of the Juniors, as signified in the elections held the first week in May of last year, are as follows: Fred Lutz, president; Barbara Dowd, vice-president; Miriam Lorenz, secretary; and Robert Shaw, treasurer.

The Junior Prom, held on Friday evening of March 1, proved to be a gem of outstanding brilliance in the constellation of University social affairs. Following three hours of unusually good dancing under the direction of Billy Sims and His Admirals, the evening was climaxed by the Grand March and the singing of the University Victory Song. The committee in charge consisted of William DuPont, chairman, Dorothy Bolin, Lucille Ericksen, Nell Snell, Wilbur Lewis, Norman Zilles, and Robert Shaw.

The Juniors have by no means contented themselves with being the outstanding scholars on the campus, but have also produced many of the athletes on our "near-champion" football, basketball and track teams. Thus, it is with no misgivings that we, as Seniors, "pass down the torch" for the Juniors to carry on to greater heights. May the coming University year only substantiate our faith in your abilities, members of the Junior Class!

Lutz,
Lorenz,
Shaw,
Dowd.

THE CLASS

OF 1936

SENIOR CLASS

The last bright rays of the setting sun outline in sharp silhouette the figures of members of the Senior Class, taking their last leave of the stately institution which has fostered them for years. The crossroads have been reached, and each will soon go his or her way in search of that nebulous something called "success."

The Seniors have this year assumed their rightful places of leadership in University affairs under the capable guidance of James

SENIOR

Morrison, Ernestine Brocklebank, Margaret White and Delbert Bruggeman.

A new and noteworthy departure has been made this year in the plans for the annual climax of the University social season—the Senior Prom. In keeping with the growing prestige of Toledo University among the colleges of the country, the Seniors this year are planning to obtain a nationally known orchestra for their affair. This is a significantly progressive step forward, marking an increased enjoyment and popularity of University social functions among both students and faculty.

It is with mixed feelings of regret and anticipation that the members of the Class of 1935 prepare for graduation—regret at taking leave of the many friendships which have been created among both students and faculty, and anticipation of the struggle soon to come.

The University of Toledo has become an integral part of our lives during our four-year stay. We, as Seniors, have given of our personalities, that we might glean additional character and culture in return—and we feel that we have succeeded.

To the faculty, we extend our sincere gratitude for the part it has played in our cultural and intellectual development.

To our student colleagues in other classes, the Class of 1935 bids you "Farewell."

Morrison,
Brocklebank,
White,
Bruggeman.

SENIOR WEEK

And thus, we come to Senior Week, symbolic of the beginning of the twilight hours in many college careers, and created in order to memorialize departing classmates to the entire University.

Caps and gowns of learned black contrast strongly with the brilliant green of the campus, and the stately grey of University Hall, giving recognition to those who are about to take leave of their alma mater.

Members of the Senior Class, each year, plant ivy vines at the base of University Hall, in the hope that they may some day make their upward progress toward the stately heights of the tower, and serve as a symbol for all to see of the individual upward progress of departing Seniors.

Looking backward, as preparations for departure take form, we, as members of the Class of '35, experience many mixed emotions.

You have truly been our alma mater, University of Toledo—an exacting and yet a helpful one. We shall not soon forget the lessons you have taught us.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council, as the student governing body of the University, is concerned with problems facing University students and with legislation for the solution of these problems of student interest. Council has taken an active part in campus affairs.

It was influential in securing an extension of the five-cent bus rate for University students. In the fall, preceeding the football game with Case, it sponsored a huge Pep Week which included on the program an all-campus dance held in both gymnasiums, a parade from the Union Station to the Hillcrest, in which different campus organizations entered floats, and a mass meeting and pep rally in Doermann theatre the day before the Case game.

Student Council this year took definite action on the question of having a men's honorary organization on the campus—similar in plan and purpose to Peppers, the women's honorary—with the result that such an organization was founded, Daniel Gluck being its first president.

Council's action on the question of smoking and gambling in University Hall, involves severe penalties for the offenders.

Student Council, as in other years, has sponsored a series of University dances at the Trianon, including the Freshman and Sophomore class dances, the Junior Prom and the annual Christmas formal. This year, for the first time in the history of the University, the Senior class has asked to have its own dance, late in the spring, and apart from the Trianon series—leaving one more date open for a Council-sponsored dance.

Unanimously recommending to the University Board of Trustees that either the Field House or the new Student Union building be named in honor of the late Dean Lee W. MacKinnon, Council also took definite action on the purchase of a picture of Dean MacKinnon to be hung in the Doermann Theatre, opposite the picture of Dr. Henry J. Doermann. All University students contributed to this project.

Gordon Roth, Council president, represented the University of Toledo at the annual convention of the National Student Federation of America, held this year in Boston.

THE CAMPUS COLLEGIAN

One passing by the Collegian Room late on a Tuesday afternoon will hear a steady clicking of typewriters and see reporters rushing about getting last minute news in shape for the weekly paper. It might be the editor doing an editorial or some bits of exciting "front page news." Then again one may be dashing off bits of gossip about the latest dance and charmingly gowned socialites. For lovers of sports the last page is prepared about University athletic activities.

All phases of University life are revealed as students hurry to their box before 8:30 classes on Friday for their Campus Collegians.

In addition to the weekly rush of work, the job of editing the University's paper this year has been supplemented by several six-page issues—one for the Annual High School day.

The MacKinnon Memorial Issue, written and published in two days and nights, received commendation from faculty and students, and from educators in Ohio as well as other schools.

THE BLOCKHOUSE

Vivien Cunningham, Editor-in-chief; Mr. Zarobsky, Adviser; Walter Learned, Business Manager.

And of course if you've seen Warren Stevens striding about school with a couple big cases, a tripod, and a few other nick-nacks you can just guess that some one is going to get a peek at that mysterious thing known in photographers language as "the birdie," the results which helps to make the Blockhouse an interesting thing. Warren and his camera have frequented sorority pledge meetings, fraternity houses, swimming pools and even the women's gym.

Or even finding Mr. Zarobsky at the west end of second floor shouldn't surprise engineers. Mr. Zarobsky has proven himself as capable of advising the Blockhouse as instructing mechanical drawing students.

Every person rushing in or out of room 424 does his or her part whether large or little. With this combined effort pictures have been taken, ensembled, paneled and shipped to the engravers. Copy written, typed and rushed to the printers.

Even T squares, rubber cement and carbon copies have a significant part in the evolving of the Blockhouse.

Or if you've seen the editor dashing down the hall at top speed, it's because she's supposed to be two places at once and is trying to be at both. And seeing her at the Blockhouse about 8 p.m. Saturday or sometime Sunday just means there was an awful need to get something done in a hurry.

So with a little dashing, a little picture taking, a little this and that, the book finally becomes a unified thing, which the staff hopes you will enjoy as a remembrance of this University year.

WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

One thinks of flowers, thrones, crowns, and music when he thinks of May Day and the Women's Association, for the two really are synonymous. The hustle and bustle of selecting the president, who automatically assumes the honor of May Queen, is climaxed by a ceremonious occasion when the Queen is crowned, surrounded by attendants, and honored with festivities.

While May Day is the outstanding event sponsored by the Women's Association, it is far from the only one. Freshman women are always welcomed into the organization with a tea, which honor pleases the new freshmen, but whose formality often flusters them. By their senior year, when the association honors them as graduates with another such celebration, they are regular veterans at balancing tea cups on their knees.

Every woman on the campus who is registered as a full time student, automatically becomes a member of this organization, which this year was led in its activities by Anna Folger, president; Antoinette Rhodes, vice-president; Martha Klopfenstein, secretary; Ruth Williams, reporter, and Dean Katherine Easley, faculty adviser.

ELLEN H. RICHARDS CLUB

When little streams of popcorn appear from nowhere all over the corridors of University Hall, the detectives inclined towards sleuthing, do something about it. At the end of the trail, one always finds an Ellen Richards Club member, who stands behind her popcorn counter urging students to buy. If the detective delves deeper into the case, he'll find that every second and fourth Monday this organization meets to plan just such projects.

One meeting a month is a luncheon meeting—the other more or less of a knitting bee, for these girls are interested in sewing as well as cooking. This past year they have been busy with a history of costume display, besides refurnishing the Home Ec office, which necessitated sewing reams and reams of curtain material.

Besides selling popcorn, the Ellen H. Richards Club sold candy and fruitcake at Christmas time, to say nothing of catering for teas. All of these projects kept them busy throughout the past year.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

The future grade school teachers of Toledo have been the most social socialites this past year. They've feted everyone they could with teas, the critics and supervising principals of the Toledo Public Schools, for instance. Then, too, Dr. Weekes has had several informal Sunday afternoon teas for the "El Ed" girls, to say nothing of the tea which Mrs. D. Henry gave in honor of Miss Brownell, music supervisor, who was made an honorary member.

Dr. Weekes attended her first "pot-luck supper"—can you imagine!—one of their social affairs, others of which were a fall roast at Fort Meigs and a Christmas party.

In the line of "duty," the members made visits to the Edna Rowe and the Maumee Valley Country Day School.

Dr. Weekes, the adviser of the Elementary Education Association, brought extra distinction to the organization, since she is the first woman on the campus to become a professor—an honor accorded her recently.

UNIVERSITY Y. M. C. A.

To win young men to the ideals and practices portrayed by Jesus;

To promote their growth into the fullness of character as revealed by His teachings;

To encourage them into active fellowship in the church of their choice;

To serve in helping young men, regardless of race, caste, creed, or nationality, to achieve in their daily economic, social, physical, mental and spiritual lives, the ideals expressed by Jesus; is the purpose of the University Young Men's Christian Association.

The aim of the University Y is: To permeate the student body with the respect for and the continuance of ideals of living that are ethical, ideals that are Christian, and to seek out and train, and maintain the leadership which will project and sustain this ideal.

The aim was formulated from various lectures by University professors and outside speakers on subjects pertinent to the college student, round table discussions, and a well-rounded social program.

DELTA X

No longer are horn-rimmed spectacles characteristic of students who enjoy the pursuit of the abstract science of Mathematics enough to participate in an extra-curricular organization which has this subject for its main interest. The prerequisites for active membership in Delta X are merely full-time registration in the University and enrollment in or completion of a course in calculus.

The club is unusual in that it boasts enough members who can present interesting topics for lectures and discussions so that they do not have to go outside their own group for speakers. The regular membership is augmented by interested non-University students who can participate as associate members. The entertainment and games are in harmony with the object of the organization. Mathematical puzzles and conundrums provide mental exercise for the lighter part of the programs which are held once a month.

The officers of Delta X are: Robert Stollberg, president; Vasil Georgeff, vice-president; and Delores Overmyer Schuetz, secretary-treasurer. Professor Wayne Dancer is the club's adviser.

U. T. E. S.

Grease smudges, tools protruding from pockets and miniature motors by which engineering students can usually be identified, are conspicuous by their absence from the bimonthly meetings for which this group comes together, bearing the title of the University of Toledo Engineering Society. A slide-rule may be seen occasionally, and models of pet schemes have been known to appear, but in general, the future engineers compose a well-ordered, dignified study group. The frequent meetings give members a chance to present a technical paper to the group on a phase of engineering. Discussions follow the presentations of the papers, and favorite theories and ideas are propounded and expressed. Individual projects come up for discussion; plans and blueprints frequently find their way into the meeting.

The present Engineering Society is a reorganization of an earlier one founded in 1931. The officers are: Robert Reynolds, president; James Purdy, vice-president; Thomas Kozak, secretary; and Palmer Liebold, treasurer.

EL CENTRO ESPANOL

Can you imagine a newspaper office full of T. U. students chattering Spanish! They not only chattered, but wrote letters and even published a paper, every word of which was in Spanish. This paper, called "El Hidalgo de Toledo," or The Toledo Knight, was edited and published by Spanish students under the guidance of Mrs. Rosario Floripe.

These students were even asked to write news items about Toledo, Ohio, for the newspaper "Toledanos" published in Toledo, Spain.

However, publishing newspapers isn't all that the members of El Centro Espanol do. They meet the first Sunday of every month in some member's home. The addresses of the speakers, as well as the business discussions, are carried on in Spanish. We wonder if they talked Spanish at the weiner roast they had. Probably.

Officers directing the activities of this group are: Dorothy Samborn, president; Selma Dolgin, vice-president; Anne Katz, recording secretary; Lamora Mueller, corresponding secretary; John Weaver, treasurer; Margaret White, reporter. Advisers are Mrs. Rosario Floripe and Professor F. Molina.

LE CENACLE FRANCAIS

The jumble of French phrases and improvisations which issue from a meeting of Le Cenacle Francais, are evidence of the fact that the spirit is there even if the grammar is weak. The meetings held each month at member's homes are somewhat more than mere practice periods in French conversation, however. Programs are offered for the edification of serious-minded students. The rest of the group seem to get more out of the plays and skits.

The constructive program of the club centers around the project to bring into the community several programs of general interest each year. Phillippe Soupault, a prominent French writer, was brought to Toledo by the organization this year, speaking at the University on the subject, "Contemporary France." A French movie, "Les Miserables," was shown in the Henry J. Doermann theater.

Officers for the current year are: Emily Sherman, president; Fentrus La Bounty, vice-president; Robert Boehler, secretary; Peter Skalkos, treasurer; and Nita Gavaris, reporter. Dr. Estelle Hamilton is adviser.

ALPHA PHI GAMMA

The National Honorary Journalistic Fraternity of the campus is Alpha Phi Gamma. It is a coeducational organization, members being chosen on the minimum basis of two years as a reporter or one year on a newspaper editorial staff. The Press Club acts more or less as a pledge chapter for Alpha Phi Gamma. This year the organization elected Donovan Emch, an alumni member, as permanent faculty adviser.

February eighth it sponsored a city-wide meet which editors of Toledo High School newspapers attended. Mr. Corbin, managing editor of the Blade, one of the speakers, addressed the group on newspaper problems. Another speaker, Carl Adamschick of the Toledo News-Bee and president of the local Newspaper Guild spoke on the problems of the guild.

Alpha Phi Gamma also sponsored its annual High School newspaper contest. The trophy awarded at the termination of this contest is presented on High School Day at the University. W. Knight, an editor of Akron, will be judge of the contest.

KAPPA PSI

Installed at the University in 1925 was Beta Lambda chapter of Kappa Psi. Kappa Psi is an international pharmaceutical fraternity with chapters limited to recognized schools of pharmacy.

Members of the organization are interested in subjects and problems relating to pharmacy. Interesting lectures during this year were given by Dr. H. H. M. Bowman and Professor McK. Reed, advisers of the fraternity. Dr. Bowman discussed the history and relationship of pharmacy and medicine. Professor Reed's talk was concerned with Kappa Psi and its meaning to pharmacy.

During the year at various times members presented papers and talks on pharmaceutical subjects. The members are spending considerable time at their fraternity house on Fernwood studying together and testing one another for the State exam.

As customary, Kappa Phi Sigma had a number of prominent physicians and surgeons of the city speak to the fraternity during the year. These speakers included Drs. Bayha, Gintzel, Meffley, Neill, and Steinberg. As guests of these doctors, the fraternity has visited various hospitals in the city, the Toledo Clinic, and the State Hospital. Another interesting feature of the years program was the film "The Physiology of Fertilization of the Human Female" shown through the courtesy of the Mead Johnson Company, of Evansville, Indiana.

PI KAPPA DELTA

Nineteen Thirty-Five concludes the fourth year of Toledo's membership in Pi Kappa Delta, the largest and most active of the national honorary forensic fraternities. The University of Toledo, one of the one hundred and forty-five member colleges, is the Ohio Theta Chapter.

The question for debate this year as voted upon by the national chapters was, "Resolved, that the nations of the world should agree to prevent the international shipment of arms and munitions."

The Lake's Province to which Province the Toledo Chapter belongs, held its Provincial meeting at Otterbein, March 22, 23, at which more than twenty colleges from Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Maine, and West Virginia, were present to participate in Men's and Women's Debates, and Extemporaneous and Oratorical contests. Toledo was represented by Dan Gluck, Joseph Kozak, Kathryn von Bichowsky, and Aubrey Mather.

The final event of the year was the annual Tri-Chapter initiation, banquet and dance, for which Bowling Green was host to the Heidelberg, Toledo and Ypsilon Chapters.

The purpose of the society is the inculcation of the ideals of scholarship, of the scientific attitude and method, and of social service in the study of all social problems. It aims to instil in the mind of the individual, a scientific attitude toward all social questions.

Meetings are held on the second and fourth Friday evenings of each month during the school year at eight o'clock at the home of Professor and Mrs. Bushnell, 3002 West Bancroft Street. Discussion followed the presentation of the subject by the speaker of the evening.

The Peppers, only honorary woman's organization on the campus, is composed of university women prominent both in activities and scholastically. The maintenance of a 1.5 average in scholarship and active participation in at least two organizations are required for membership.

This year has been particularly successful with the inauguration of an annual Alumni Tea and Christmas party.

The Men's Honorary is a new organization on the campus this year. Its purpose is a two-fold one: First, to give special recognition to those Senior and Junior men who excel in extra-curricular and scholastic activities; second, to actively encourage all constructive projects for the development of the University. The membership is limited to thirteen men in the Senior College, and a minimum prerequisite of participation in two extra-curricular activities and a one-point five average is necessary to be eligible as a candidate for membership.

One browsing around the various laboratories and class rooms will come upon interesting research and problems at the point o pros and cons. Into the physics lab where a formula is being solved, then to a sociology lecture by Dr. Bushnell. Down on second floor, joining the biology lab, one will find a conservatory, the sanctum of Dr. Bowman. Here the study of plant life can be observed.

ATHLETIC STAFF

Connelly, Anderson, Nicholson

The multitude of duties that goes with being director of University of Toledo athletics rests on the shoulders of this wise-cracking but hard working Dave Connelly.

Dave has big-time hopes for the University, and everything he does both as athletic director and baseball coach is with that view in mind. He is also manager each year of two of Ohio's outstanding high school events, the sectional basketball tournament and the annual indoor track meet, both held in the field house.

In years of service, Dave is the dean of the athletic department, having come here in 1926, but he is still a young man and he is looking far to the future for University of Toledo athletics.

When Jim Nicholson came here five years ago, the Rocket football teams were winning and losing games in the Northwestern Ohio conference. Today his teams are among the leaders in the Ohio conference and are engaging in intersectional games on even terms.

Not only has he coached the Toledo teams to new heights, but he has also sold Rocket football to Toledo sport fans. Jim is chiefly responsible for the Toledoans "adopting" his team and coming out in record crowds to see the University games.

Jim is also coach of track and director of the Toledo coaching school to be held here June 10-15.

Harold Anderson has been with the University of Toledo one year, but in that short time he has made his mark on the campus by piloting the Rocket basketball team to a record season.

Anderson came to the University to coach basketball after six successful years at Waite high school. As a college coach, he wasn't slow in getting started. In his first year he produced a team that was among the strongest in the state, and established himself as one of the leading coaches in Ohio. Anderson was also assistant track coach.

Toledo sport followers are predicting a great future for this newest addition to the University's coaching staff.

Chuck Wertz was a great halfback at Ohio Wesleyan before he came to Toledo to coach the backfield under Jim Nicholson.

During practices Chuck can always be noticed on the field, urging the Rocket gridders on, directing the plays and formations, and instilling a lot of the fight and spirit that was evident with the Toledo team. While not connected with the University except through his coaching duties, Chuck is one of its outstanding boosters.

The molding of the Rocket line each year is in the hands of Andy Vanyo, who not so long ago made a great record as a line-man at Michigan State Normal. Andy coaches his men in the same hard charging and fighting type of play that marked his playing days.

When he isn't coaching, Andy is directing the intramural program here. Since he has been director of this activity, intramurals have been drawing more and more participants to it with new sports being added each year.

Following an outstanding athletic career at the University of Michigan, where he was an All-American halfback, Roy Hudson came here in 1933 as the University of Toledo's first official freshman football coach.

From the two teams that he coached, Hudson has sent up several fine players to take their places on the varsity squad. Last year he was assistant basketball coach to Dave Connelly, and this year succeeded Jim Nicholson as freshman cage coach.

Anderson, Nicholson, Hudson, Connelly, Wertz, Vanyo.

Freshman Squad—This year the University was blessed with many promising freshman football candidates. Coach Roy Hudson drilled and trained these men, fitting them for varsity berths. Weekly scrimmages against the varsity team proved the value these freshman boys will be next season.

The gang that gets none of the glory, the gang who plugs and keeps the varsity on their toes, is the freshman. Some of the outstanding men we will hear more from are: Les Gast, Dick Davis, Emil Kontak, Chad Hennessy, Bill Lunn, Jim Day, Bill Daley, Morris Daso, Al Morrette, and Martin Slovak.

A varsity squad needs coaches, assistants, and trainers, but, without a freshman squad to keep them on edge and drilled against the opposition's methods they could not be successful.

Our freshman squad kept the Rockets battling against the opposing teams signals and systems of ball carrying. Each week they worked with new signals for each week's game, preparing the varsity for the coming game. Let's not overlook their loyalty and importance to our University.

Varsity Squad—Our University of Toledo football team of 1934, built up a prestige and position among Ohio colleges that other schools have gained only with years of work and spirit. The season was filled with nine games that all held the same amount of thrills and spectacular performances. Five conference games were played, our Rockets winning four. Splendid showing was made against such strong teams as Western Reserve, Case, Muskingum and Buffalo.

With the graduation of Captain Smolinski, Adam Najarian, Orin Neff, Louie Bolton, Gordie Thayer, and Del Bruggeman, Coach Nicholson has some replacements to make that will not be easy. However, the wealth of material returning and the exceptional freshman coming up makes things indicative of championship next year.

One of our strongest University of Toledo football teams ever seen, initiated the 1934 season by crushing Capital, 20 to 0.

The Rockets scored in all but one period of the contest as they outplayed the visitors in every department of the game. Capital's thrusts at the Toledo line were fruitless and only passes and penalties aided them in scoring their two first downs.

Ollie Rothlisberger, sophomore, and Jerry Welling, the U's major threats, carried the ball in most impressive style. Jerry made a run of 62 yards for a touchdown. Ollie plunged six yards for one and Bill Smith passed to Ollie for the next.

With a display of coordination, power and deception, the Rockets crushed Kenyon College before an enthusiastic home-coming crowd.

A twenty-five yard pass from Bill Smith to Captain Ed Smolinski waiting in the end zone, accounted for the first score. John Wickter started the second touchdown with a 30-yard run to Kenyon's 19. Smith smashed through left tackle for the Rocket score. An intercepted pass by Smith and a well-executed double lateral from Smith to Bolton to Smolinski brought the ball to Kenyon's 20. A series of plunges completed the score.

In the second half Phil Bova's recovery of a Kenyon fumble shortly after the kickoff, was the spark that sent Toledo to its fourth touchdown. The double lateral play from Smith to Southard to Wickter was good for another score in the third period. Schlaff and Chambers accounted for the final points.

The University of Toledo maintained its place in the Ohio Conference standing by downing the Bowling Green State College at Bowling Green.

The Rockets displayed a dazzling offensive which included the effective use of double laterals and forward lateral passes.

Welling returning to the Rocket lineup, scored the first touchdown with a plunge from the two-yard line.

Toledo's second touchdown came early in the third period with Wickter leading the attack, and finally scoring.

The third and final touchdown came on a forward lateral pass from DiSalle to Southard to Rothlisberger.

Toledo's Blue and Gold eleven scored a brilliant upset over the Muskingum Marudes at New Concord, Ohio. It was the Rocket's fourth consecutive win in the Ohio Conference and the first defeat Muskingum had suffered on its home field in five years.

The Rockets scored a touchdown in the second quarter after a thrilling 70-yard march starting on their 30-yard line. Smith threw a perfect pass to Rothlisberger. Two plays later, Smolinski made a beautiful catch of a Smith pass and ran to the Muskingum 35. Rothlisberger got away for 26 yards on a delayed opening play at right tackle to put the ball on the four from where Welling took it over in four plays.

The Rockets added two points on a safety near the end of the game. Irving, Muskie halfback, attempted to pass from behind his goal line, but Prono smashed through and tackled him before he could throw the ball.

Adam Najarian, Earl Smith and Ed Prono played outstanding games on the line for the Rockets.

The University of Toledo's undefeated record in Ohio Conference football was crushed under by the Rough Riders of the Case School of Applied Science of Cleveland in the final game of the grid season.

The Rockets fought desperately but were unable to stave off the attack of the Clevelanders.

Early in the third period, Neff covered the ball after a Case man had touched Welling's punt to the five-yard line. Bill Smith broke through left tackle for a touchdown.

In the fourth period with Toledo on the Case 12-yard line, Welling tossed a forward to Bolton in the end zone for the Rockets second touchdown. Rothlisberger converted.

Red Palm and Adam Najarian played outstanding games for the Rockets. Captain Ed Smolinski also distinguished himself.

The team that wore the Blue and Gold colors of the University of Toledo in the 1934-35 basketball campaign, established itself as the strongest team in the history of Rocket athletics by virtue of a season's record of 13 victories, 10 of them Ohio conference wins, in 16 games.

The Toledo five opened its season none too impressively, splitting even in its first four games. But then the Rockets opened a winning streak that lasted for ten straight games, and at its end the Toledo cagers had already made their mark in Ohio basketball competition.

During that string of victories, the Rockets scored wins over such strong teams as Western Reserve and Baldwin-Wallace, the latter team conference champions this year. St. John's also was a victim of the Rocket spurt in a game that found Toledo retaining the city collegiate title it won last year.

Toledo's ability to come back in the second half with the score and the odds against it, was one of the factors that went for victory in several of its games this year. Other factors that helped the Rockets, include Charles Cupp's offensive performance and John Rapparlief's outstanding work at guard. Cupp led the Toledo scoring with 151 points, while Rapparlief was awarded a guard position on the United Press' first all-Ohio conference team for his defensive skill.

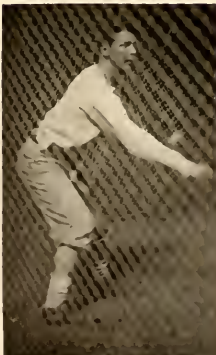

The Rockets outscored their opponents, 508 to 421, averaging 31.7 points a game to 26.3 for the opposition. Toledo finished in a tie for fifth place in the Ohio conference, only one game out of first.

The success of the Rocket team was a tribute to Harold Anderson, Toledo's new coach, who, directing a college team for the first time, led the University of Toledo team to a position high among Ohio college quintets. Eleven of the twelve men who finished the year will return to Anderson next season, which promises to be even more successful than the past.

The Rocket baseball squad is one of the strongest nines ever to represent the University. Most of last years squad has returned and several sophomores have shown great promise.

The pitching staff has become one of the best in the state competition. Last year's ace hurler, Norm Lippincott, is back this season and will carry major honors again. He will be ably supported by Rapparlle, Gibbons, Heil and Kidney. The pitchers have had plenty of drill and practice and should be instrumental in Toledo University being an outstanding team in the Conference.

The boys covering the infield are all steady, good fielding and good hitting players. The initial sack is held by Dutch McDermott who has had plenty of experience and can keep the team in a fighting spirit. "Old Man" Sprunk on second can always be counted on for dependable work. Howard Hayes is a rangy lad playing his first season with the Rockets as short stop. Howard has added a great deal of speed to the keystone. Ed Southard is handling the hot corner again this season and if you know Ed, you know he'll do the job.

The outfielders are led by hard hitting Charlie Cupp who also plays first base. Mowery and Konczal cover the other two outer gardens.

Joe Jankowski has developed into a fine backstop and is strongly understudied by Willard Beebe.

Coach Dave Connelly has put in a lot of hard work and has developed his team to the height where the Rockets are headed for the higher bracket of the Conference standing.

UNIVERSITY TRACK

Toledo University's 1935 tracksters have had a season of numerous victories and few defeats. Coach Jim Nicholson has developed the team from good Freshmen into outstanding Sophomores. Six of our best point getters are second year boys, which makes us anticipate a successful next season.

Doan Houck and Len Jacobs are repeating their high-jumping performances with more skill and more first places than last season.

Two outstanding weight men are Bob Biehl and Earl Smith. These huskies are real competition.

Running the hurdles are George Bleckner, Malcolm Baxter, and Dick Spencer. George also runs the dash, teaming with Wickter. Some fine hurdlers have been noticed in conference meets this year.

One of our noblest performers is Fred DeShetler. Fred runs the mile, two mile, and sometimes the half-mile. He is a Sophomore, and should be better than ever next year. Other distance men were Burt Southard, Frank Hudick, Willard Bright, Hullenkremer, and John Allen.

Bill Wyatt is a fine 440 runner, and will be back for action next year. Bill can hold his own in the broad jump, and proves valuable to the relay team.

No one man could keep up the pole-vaulting end of a track meet any better than Bob Long. He has gained a new height this year, and will carry on in '35-36.

The University Track Team won the Northwestern Ohio College meet this year, by outdoing men of Heidelberg, Bowling Green, Western Reserve, and Wittenberg. Some fine records have been established in spite of the handicap of having Johnny Wickter on the side lines most of the season with a charley-horse. Johnny's value could greatly be felt even though the season was successful.

CROSS COUNTRY

The Rocket Cross Country team completed their 1934-35 season with two wins and two defeats. This year the Harriers were under the guidance of one of our newest and youngest coaches, Russell Seaver. Hard work has placed the team in higher rank than they formerly held.

In a triangular meet, the University team defeated Adrian and Bluffton. Wayne University of Detroit, won over Kalamazoo and Toledo. The season was finished with a state meet held in Columbus.

The cross country team was led by Burt Southard, a senior and a fine runner. Other members are Fred De Shetler, Ernie Walker, Bob Kemp, Bob Perry, and John Allen. With the exception of Burt, the entire team will be back for next season.

TENNIS

Tennis is one of the newer fields our athletes have entered. The University Tennis Team has made rapid progress in the past few years.

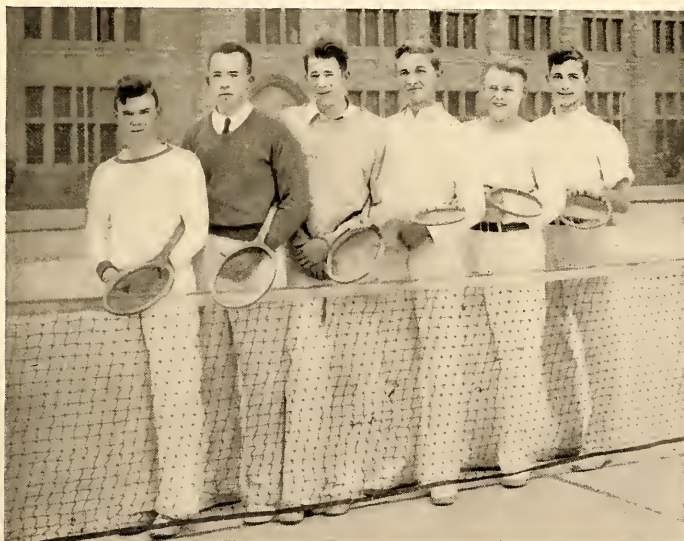

The boys on the team have the necessary determination and love of the game to carry the program through themselves. As yet they have no coach and have no school official to book their games. What they have learned, and the games they've booked has all been the efforts of those on the team.

The person largely responsible for such progress is Doan Houck. Doan, besides, has a business ability that assures our Tennis Team of games.

Captain Monto and Ed Rathbun are two of the most colorful players the University has produced. Other members of the team are: Doan Houck, John Grigsby, Dick Querl, Dean St. Clair, Robert Schwyn, Maurice Wallace, John Krause, Don Carter, Robert Gilchrist, William DeWolfe, Willis Garwood, Robert Hohly, Irvin Edelstein, and Elmer Goldman.

The University Tennis Team has such strong teams as Xavier, University of Detroit, Western Reserve, Bowling Green, and Ypsilanti on the schedule this season.

INTRAMURALS

The aim of the Intramural Department is to interest every male student of the University in some sport and to encourage competition in these sports between individuals and teams.

The sports program begins in the fall with speedball, football punt and cross-country, continues with boxing, wrestling, and basketball during the winter, and concludes with track and indoor baseball in the spring. Twenty-two activities were conducted by the Intramural Department this year, and the department feels that it has achieved its purpose.

A group of managerial assistants to Andy Vanyo, Director of Intramurals, arranged the schedules, notified the participants, and conducted the events. In addition to these managers, each fraternity and independent group was under the direction of a unit manager.

To date Sigma Beta Phi Fraternity is leading the field with a total of 780 points. Alpha Phi Omega is running a close second, with Chi Beta Chi in third place.

The annual basketball tourney was run off this spring, and resulted in a very close race. Chi Rho Nu finally came off victorious after a hard battle.

To the men of Phi Kappa Chi go the laurels for the ping-pong championship.

Chi Beta Chi was successful in taking the handball, punt, and speedball championships.

The boxing, wrestling, volley-ball, horse-shoe tournaments went to Sigma Beta Chi.

All of these events were under the direction of Vanyo's assistant manager, William Wyatt. Ted Walinski also helped with the clerical work.

Some of the outstanding athletes were Southard, Welling, Gast, Connell, DuPont, Dierks and Bright.

A SPORTS DAY

Introducing the women's physical education department at T.U. . . vibrating with an enthusiastic group of co-eds, who have bubbled over all year with sport spirit and plans for the Women's Athletic Association programs.

To the gym, ye merry lassies, for a basketball, volley ball, or badminton game. So much fun trying to get the hands on the ball in basketball, and off the ball in volley ball! Hamilton doesn't do so bad in making baskets, nor Betty Heyn in making a volley. . . . Isn't much of a feather left on the badminton bird, when Judy Brezvai gets through swinging the racket. The social room re-sounds with tap rhythm . . . likewise the ping pong ball hits up a tune and the creative dancers do their share of graceful rhythmical gestures.

Let's play hockey from our gym classes. All one needs is a stick, and a ball, ankle pads and feet, a spirit and a will. Will we play hockey? We will! Speedball too—and tennis—on T.U.'s brand new cement courts . . . Nothing makes Krepleever happier, does it?

Scarlett prepares for a W. A. A. meeting, Sherman trips around with notices for the mail boxes. Mueller gets out her minute book. Shultz corresponds for a speaker. Ayars sees that Sisson has a story for the Collegian. Fuller finds that there is a roll call of 113 members. Hamilton thinks of a social program funnier than the last time . . . and we are invited to come.

The organization purpose is to promote health, physical efficiency, social activity, and true sports-manship . . . the goal this year, to promote outdoor activities and to make plans for the building of a W.A.A. cabin.

To our president, Helen Scarlett . . . and to our adviser, Mrs. Marian Richley, for making the W.A.A. organization become a vital and happy part of our college life.

Mrs. Marian Richley

INTER-SORORITY COUNCIL

The Inter-Sorority Council is the governing body of all the sororities on the campus. It has been in existence for nine years, during which time it has come to take over the control of problems affecting each of the sororities. Especially does this organization function during rushing season, for it prepares the rules and regulations by which all members of the council must abide, under penalty of fine if broken. Discussion of sorority affairs and needs for the social life takes place at regular meetings occurring once a month.

Dean Katherine Easley advises the group, composed of two members from each of the eight sororities on the campus. A Junior and a Senior are elected by their respective groups. Officers are elected by a system of rotation. The presidents of the sororities may attend the meetings if they desire.

The hour of 8:30 brings forth our University socialites gowned in taffetas, brilliant crepes and soft chiffons. All this typified the Kappa fall dance. Between strains of popular rhythm there is chatter about coming meetings and a far-off Christmas dance when formals are dragged out of the closet and girls rush about town for the newest thing. It is the time of vibrant gaiety and excitement.

As the last bits of snow melt and springtime with its sweet perfumes penetrates the air, Kappas cast aside winter gowns for colorful organdies, laces and voiles. Months of fun, including parties and teas, are climaxed by a most delightful spring formal. Balloons, music and laughter add to the festiveness of the affair. What need for sadness—especially when final exams are just finished. It is with a feeling of completeness members glance back over the happy times spent together, and smile at the remembrance of clever entertainment provided by the pledge chapter at meetings. But soon pledges will be members, for school is over—vacation begins.

A garden in the late afternoon of a warm and glowing September day provided the setting for a smart and lovely tea. Pi Delts were hostesses to members of the several campus sororities. All chatted about passing vacation days and future social events of the University year.

In contrast to the gaiety of a garden tea, dignity penetrated the atmosphere of the tea honoring faculty members. Too, male members of the University were among the faculty honored.

We hear that the Pi Delts also have their fun, novelty parties proving to be their specialty. Of these novelties, a Coney Island party given for rushees made a "hit" with everyone. Members in glittering costumes of carnival folk and an old-fashioned melodrama, provided a source of much amusement and gaiety.

The wide-awake pledge chapter managed to be first to engage the new Union Building for a dance. Here they entertained members who some weeks before entertained them with a lively dance. And it must be admitted, the pledges can entertain quite as well as the members.

The unique and interesting tower room of the Hillcrest Arms was the scene of a jubilant Thanksgiving celebration for members of the Theta sorority. Brown and yellow, colors of the sorority, along with programs in gold gave a brightness to the dance and an atmosphere of holiday celebration.

Soft blue Christmas tree lights and sweet music, adding to the loveliness of green smilax decorations, afforded a gala background for the Theta's holiday dance at the University Club.

One of the outstanding accomplishments of this year was the organization of a Mother's Club climaxed with a banquet at the Tally-Ho. By this the Thetas hope to establish a lasting relationship and a closer connection between Theta mothers and daughters, with their mothers taking an active interest in sorority affairs.

The members believe in keeping their pledges busy. Little sisters must write notes everyday to their "big sisters" and always be ready to do what is asked of them. But duties are forgotten when members and pledges get together for dances, formal affairs, and other parties.

The Psi Chis can take it when it comes to late hours. If you saw some sleepy-eyed members on a certain October morning, just three guesses, a slumber party the night before where girls pounded out popular tunes on the piano, sang, and ate through the long hours of the night.

But the ever ready Psi Chis go right on with their parties.

And after an all night's celebration, the members, as perfect hostesses, entertained all the other sororities with a New Year's twilight tea in the softness of candle glow. Holly and a Christmas tree, whose blue lights made interesting patterns on the gowns of sorority guests, added to the holiday atmosphere.

The Psi Chis revived the good old custom of "box socials" when seniors entertained the other members. Box lunches were auctioned off to the highest bidders and after a hearty meal, the seniors presented a clever little play to end a joyous evening.

On May 16, Psi Chis entertained with an All-University afternoon dance in the new Union Building. At the time, University students had an opportunity to inspect the building.

Banquets are the specialty of the Alpha Taus. A delightful one celebrating Founder's Day brought together Beta and Alpha members of the sorority. At this time old acquaintances were renewed and new acquaintances made, as well as reviving an interest in active affairs.

Another banquet of charm was given in honor of senior members. Corsages made a "hit" at the moment while the gifts given serve as a lasting remembrance to be cherished in many years to come.

Alphas were among the first to entertain in the new Union Building with a spring tea.

Mother's Day, always an important event in sorority life, was a joyous occasion for Alpha Tau members and their mothers. The event was celebrated with a charming tea at the Woman's Building. Violin selections given by Mrs. Nicholas Mogendorf, partroness of the sorority, whose accompanist was Jean Spitznaugle, an Alpha member, were enjoyed thoroughly by the guests. All mothers were presented with delightful little potted plants.

A buffet supper of sandwiches, pickles, olives, little cakes and a sip of tea, followed a theater party for members of the Sigma Pi Delta sorority at the Paramount Theatre where "Gold Diggers of 1935" was showing. During the remainder of the evening, Mrs. Stafford, adviser of the sorority, delighted the girls by studying the palms of each and telling them the various characteristics they possessed.

On February second, a Founder's Day Banquet celebrated the fourth anniversary of the sorority's existence. A large gathering of both active and Beta members helped to make this party a tremendous success. Of course entertainment added its part so that it can truthfully be said "a grand time was had by all."

Teas have also been a source of pleasure for the Sigma Pi Deltas. With the customary delicious and dainty sandwiches and cookies, one is inclined to linger long, nibbling while chatting.

But the members do many more things besides entertaining guests at teas. Their spring dance, as well as the formal banquet they gave in honor of Mrs. Jesse Dowd Stafford proves this true.

Violins uttering the sprightly ballads of "Turkey in The Straw" and "She'll Be Coming Round The Mountain," gave the Tau Delt's Square Dance an added zest. Cornstalks and large yellow pumpkins added to the atmosphere of a fall barn dance. After an evening of energetic dancing everyone had worked up an appetite for cider, doughnuts, sandwiches, and apples.

When more seriously inclined the members can play a good game of bridge. An evening of bridge at the Ottawa Park Shelter House was followed by a delicious lunch. Colorful tallies were enhanced with spring flowers in pastel shades. To the winners went "the spoils" for lovely prizes were the reward for the highest scores.

For late afternoon entertainment the Tau Delt's recommend a good show followed by a dinner.

Tau Delt pledges are among the several pledge groups to entertain in the new Union Building. They are honoring active and alumni chapters with a spring dance. Lovely corsages are the sure prize in store for each Alpha and Beta member.

Moonlight, lapping of the Maumee, and a crackling fire over which meat sizzled, provided a perfect setting for the Zeta roast. The problems of school were tossed aside as the members and their dates bit into hot "hot dogs." With hardly a care, the couples entered into the spirit of the party. The lunch was followed by various out-of-door games in which everyone participated with the greatest vim.

Zetas also have a serious side. Throughout the year various prominent speakers addressed them at their regular meetings. Refreshments were served, and formality was again dropped as everyone enjoyed the good food.

Of the many merry Christmas dances, Zeta's was one of the merriest. Park Roe Town Club, the scene of activity, was smartly decorated in holiday trimmings.

But best of all was the last party of the school year, a Spring Formal. Each member dressed in her newest gown, happily visioned vacation days ahead. As the clock struck twelve, and, as in Cinderella, the girls left for home, but unlike Cinderella, the prince charming went along.

PLEDGE CHAPTERS

Gay evening parties—sophisticated teas—clever theater parties—solemn pledgings. All are characteristic of the spring rushing season. Pledging is followed by organization of each sorority pledge chapters. Each group is busy with its activities. The Kappa Kittens were the first to plunge into the social whirl entertaining their "big sisters" with a formal dance at the Toledo Tennis Club. The Pi Delt pledge chapter followed with a "Let's Dance" party at the Chi Bet house. All was not gaiety for the pledges. The Alpha Tau's pledges and the little sisters of the Tau Delts dutifully ran errands for their most "beloved superiors." The Theta Thebians and Psi Chi Poppyettes turned money makers, holding very successful bridge parties and a prosperous candy sale. Pledges of the Zeta Gammas helpfully aided their members with plans for the sorority. Bella Paskow proved a most faithful Sigma Pi Delta pledge. Pledges, humble servants that they are, will remember the joys of this probation when they take those final oaths.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

In order to have complete cooperation of the fraternities on the campus, it was decided to have a governing group composed of two official representatives from each fraternity. This was founded in 1925 and became known as Pan-Hellenic council.

Pan-Hell has been instrumental in furthering university projects to the nth degree. For instance, each year, floats for important football games have been constructed and parades have been initiated into the school as part of the college activities.

Members of this group have done good work in seeing that boys who have participated in the inter-scholastic track and basketball competition in the field house, would come to this University after the completion of their high school work. Besides their capable work in promoting greater interest in the University in athletics and scholasticism, Pan-Hell has, by way of social activities, given several dances and stag smokers each year.

Phi Kappa Chi, the oldest fraternity on the campus, and wearing the emblem of black and white, has retained its distinction of being one of the worthwhile leaders for a bigger and better University. In previous years, as well as this year, credit was rightfully given to their adviser, Dr. H. H. M. Bowman, listed in Who's Who. Jack Luscombe, the president and student council representative, is a big reason for the Phi Kap's success as leaders. But far be it to confine that success to two men. Johnny Kappel, former University of Wisconsin drum major and now the University of Toledo's pride, William Bellman, prominent in dramatics, Fred De Shetler, varsity trackman and Carl Eberlein, a promising baritone, are the active chapter's "pillars." The pledge class, listing Don Beroset and Ray Cronin as school office holders, Jack Rentsch and Joe Baird as promising Varsity candidates for football and basketball respectively, can truthfully say that they are more than doing their bit in upholding the fraternity traditions. The Phi Kaps point optimistically toward the future.

Sigma Beta Phi, second oldest fraternity on the campus, was founded three years later, and under the capable guidance of their adviser, Professor Walter F. Brown and Gordon Roth president of the student council and the fraternity, has commanded recognition from other colleges as well as this University. Firmly established in their beautiful three-story home on Parkwood Avenue, the Sigmas have nearly completed another successful year. The intramural champions for five consecutive years, justify their position on the campus with such men as John Wickter, student council representative, varsity half-back and star on the track; Winston Leffler, Blockhouse sports editor; Robert Biehl, tackle and star center on the basketball team; Bruce Melvin, an assistant editor on the Blockhouse; Bill Wyatt, trackman and intramural manager for the college; and Jack Striggow, advertising manager for the Campus Collegian. With an excellent pledge group, the foundation for several more successful years has been laid for the wearers of the black and gold.

Sigma Delta Rho has the distinction of being the only national social fraternity on the campus. The first chapter was founded at Miami in 1921; three years later this fraternity, then known as the Zeta Omicron, went national. They boast as part of their home, a fine ballroom, which was furnished and provided for card parties as well as attractive dances this year. Carleton Rae, one of the Sig Delt's outstanding men, is president of the Alpha Phi Gamma, national journalistic fraternity, as well as president of his own. Carleton is known by the student body as one of the most congenial men and one of the hardest workers for the University. Walt Learned is the business manager of the Blockhouse and has gained recognition through his fine efforts. The Meier brothers have commanded much attention through their social, scholastic and athletic ability. Paul is a wrestling champion, and Ted is a champion swimmer and is president of the student "Y." Their adviser, Professor J. B. Brandeberry, has done nobly in guiding the Sig Delt's to greater heights.

Alpha Phi Omega acquired this year a splendid new adviser in Professor A. T. Johnson, who took over the duties of the former adviser, Personnel Director D. S. Parks, in fine fashion. Willard Rex, their new president, has taken over the former duties of Bill Teel and the office of president of Pan-Hellenic Council with equal ability. Rex Shaw, back-stroke champion, returned to school the second semester, aiding his fraternity in challenging for the supremacy in interfraternity athletic competition; and Pat Gibbons and Leonard Jacobs, who have proven their merits as baseball and basketball experts, are the two remaining reasons why Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity is bidding for first place in intramurals. Robert Shaw carrying the banner of Alpha Phi has distinguished himself in extra-curricular activities at this institution. The men wearing the colors of scarlet and gray for the fourteenth year, point with pride to their new home on Rosedale Avenue and for a very good reason, too. It is a beautiful two-story structure recently refurnished and is being capably taken care of by a very promising group of pledges.

Chi Rho Nu founded in the same year as the preceding fraternity, is rapidly becoming known as a serious competitor in athletics; largely through the efforts of their president and star quarterback, Bill Smith, and ace backfield man, Jerry Welling, the Chi Rho's have built up a championship caliber fraternity; and guiding this fraternal ship in a steady, calm and fatherly way is their adviser, Professor G. E. Van Sickle, known especially for his ability to instruct "his boys" as well as his students in a helpful, yet mild-mannered way. No wonder there is a spirit to win and a spirit for greater cooperation excelled by no fraternity, which has given added prestige to this group. The Straka men, brothers of Arnold, Toledo U's former great basketball star, who are carrying on the Straka tradition as sterling players of the cage game, and Lester Gast, a freshman of great promise in football, basketball and track, are three more reasons for this fraternity's success. With the acquisition of a new home on Sanford Place, Chi Rho Nu further proves its sincerity in promoting a greater social and fraternal feeling to the rest.

The Kappa Iota Chi fraternity, which was founded in 1923, is one of the pioneer organizations on the campus. Every year when the fraternity grades are posted, any one who is at all familiar with this data knows that K.I. is always close to the top and this year was no exception. These men had over a one point four average. Joe Siegel has a right to boast of that, but the rest of the members have an even better right for Joe is a brilliant student and he brought that average up a bit by himself. He is also the president of his fraternity and has spent three years working on the Blockhouse staff, this year on the faculty division. Seymour Rothman is another shining star in the group. Rothman is assistant sports editor of the Campus Collegian and is known for his clever writeups after some of the University's gridiron battles; besides that, Seymour wrote the script for the college review. Irvin Edelstein, another member, is a candidate for the varsity basketball team next year and from reports via the field house, he has an excellent chance. The Kappa Iota Chi's are more than justified in boasting as their adviser, Dr. L. Fortney, a type of man who understands young men perfectly and acts accordingly.

Lambda Chi has as its president this year Isadore Epstein. Though one of the later fraternities organized on the campus, they have become a well recognized group. Epstein, a member of Delta X, is also an assistant to Professor Winslow. The Lambdas are challenging for supremacy in intramurals, particularly in the field of basketball. Epstein makes a good showing in the sport. Another Lambda Chi, Harry Lepold, an ex-Scott star, is a promising trackster for the varsity track squad next year. Abe Goldberg, another member athletically inclined, was a member of this year's freshman football squad. Athletics has its place in any fraternity but Bill Molle chooses as his interest, dramatics. In "Hotel Universe" he played the part of Norman. In "Taming of the Shrew" Bill's role was that of Curtis. The fraternity can well be proud of their adviser Dr. Frank L. Nurse. Dr. Nurse is professor of philosophy and one of the members longest associated with the College of Arts and Science. Dr. Steinberg, an alumnus, is now on the teaching staff at the University, assisting in the biology department.

Chi Beta Chi was the last social fraternity founded on the campus, but during the last seven years has more than made up their "youth." William Hensley, the president, and Professor C. J. Bushnell, adviser, have been instrumental in the rapid advancement of this group. The Chi Bets boast three representatives in the student council, which, in itself would be somewhat of a record. Hal Jennings, Aubry Forman, the blind king of the ivories and one of the highest praised men in this school, and Doan Houck, varsity trackman, are the three. The Chi Bets this year had the Campus Collegian pretty well in hand, largely through the efforts of Graham Smith and John Grigsby. The former is certainly city-wide if not state known for his editorial comments, and the latter is a varsity tennis man. Not to be outdone this year, the fraternity also annexed a new home, including a ball room on the third floor, and they are having no trouble in keeping it clean; this for the most part is taken care of by a lively group of neophytes. The Chi Bets prophesy nothing but success.

DEBATING ASSOCIATION

OHIO CONFERENCE ASSOCIATION

The focal point of activities each year is the Ohio Conference season which extends through December. For four successive years the University of Toledo has led the conference in regularly scheduled clashes. This year a team composed of Edwin Klag, Joseph Kozak, and Daniel Gluck, captain, defeated the University of Akron, Muskingum College, and Ohio University. Contests with Bluffton and Findlay, in which Charles Scharfy, Theodore Ulmer, Joseph Kozak, and Joseph Rinderknecht, alternate, participated, were non-decision. The question used in the Conference contests was Resolved, "That all public utilities should be publicly owned and operated." University speeches on this question are being printed in Intercollegiate Debates, a handbook series published annually by Noble and Noble.

ARMS AND MUNITIONS QUESTION

Varsity teams participated in the Manchester Tournament, winning ten out of fifteen contests against such opponents as Chicago, Loyola, Northwestern, Wayne, Western State, etc. At home Denison, Baldwin-Wallace, Bowling Green, Wilberforce, Ontario Agricultural, Syracuse, were met in local non-decision contests. Deputation debates on the Munitions question were held before the Waterville and McCune Posts of the American Legion, the Y.M.C.A. and various P.T.A. and Honor organizations. Varsity teams on this question: (1) Kozak and Gluck; (2) Klag and Ulmer; (3) Palm and Carsten. Women: Mather and Bichowsky; alternate, Louise Retzke.

BAND

What student's heart has not beat a little faster this year when he heard the band play the first thrilling notes of the school song at a football game, basketball game, or other athletic event. Who among us has not felt that the spirit of victory with which the students and team entered into most of the year's sports, was not to be accredited to the unifying influence of the band. Certainly this revived organization has shown more growth and development than any other school body.

New life and activity in the band may be traced to Mr. Lezius' interest in the organization and cooperation with it, Miss Ruegger's directing, and John Kappel's drum-majoring.

Outside the realm of athletic activities, the band has demonstrated its ability by playing for convocation, and for civic occasions. Music presented in these programs was equally as good as that played for sport meetings.

ORCHESTRA

Practice begins. Violins sing a lovely song accompanied by subdued horns. The music stops. Directions are given. A new piece is started. The horns exult in the deep tones of a triumphal march. Practice continues—varied—interesting.

Sensitive to the music it carries, the air is vibrant and expectant—expectant because it remembers the classic accompaniment from the “Chimes of Normandy” and the gay melodies from “The Red Mill”—remembers the many selections used for convocations and special programs—remembers the beautiful music from the spring concert so aptly directed by Miss Ruegger.

The air is sensitive to the music—stagnant to the quiet, as instruments slip into cases and students depart. Practice is over.

C H O R U S

Overture, curtain, and the show begins.

On stage, the members of the Chorus are singing the opening number from the "Chimes of Normandy," a semi-classical opera by Planquette. June Spaur, as Serpolette, enters and sings her first solo. As they forget the audience, and become wholly absorbed in the music which has become so natural to them from the preceding months of practice, the Chorus members begin to lose the tenseness and stiffness which comes with the opening of the show.

Songs and dialogue follow each other quickly, until with full volume of voices, the finale brings the end of the first act. As the curtain touches the stage, leads and chorus members break from their fixed positions and dart for the stairway, like iron filings drawn unresistingly toward a magnet.

Downstairs, the confusion of talk and laughter is instilled with infectious enthusiasm for the show. Comments and congratulations fill the air as the girls tie on voluminous pink and blue aprons, and retouch make-up. Mr. Ball gives the boys some last minute instructions before going up for the overture to the next act. In a few minutes the cast is all on stage, and the show is again under way.

When the show is over, there is a feeling of elation and success in the air, as the leads and the Chorus receive many compliments for the fine work done.

Lighter, gayer melodies in Victor Herbert's "The Red Mill" brought a pleasant contrast between this second semester production and "The Chimes of Normandy" in the first. Modern in setting, "The Red Mill" skipped along blithely from one comic situation to another. Such hum-able, whistle-able tunes as "Because You're You", "Moonbeams", and "In Old New York", helped make the production one of the Chorus's best.

Proving the versatility of the Chorus, programs for convocation and the University hour over WSPD, were well planned and sung. Music of a more serious nature was offered at Baccalaureate and Commencement.

"Chimes of Normandy," one of the most popular French musicals ever translated, was presented by the Chorus on January 10 and 11. Of the variety of characters appearing in the "Chimes of Normandy," notable ones were Kenneth Konopka, a foolish old bailli; Max Bishop, a cowardly rogue; Jack Merrill, an insane old miser and Carl Eberlein, a gallant hero. Feminine leads were Lois Hotz and June Spaur.

Doing the finest work in its history, the chorus received special notice for naturalness in acting and ease on the stage.

Silence . . . a signal . . . then a flash—they're on the air. Voices of the University quartette have been heard a number of times this year over WSPD. Members of this quartette, chosen from the University male chorus, are Max Bishop, first tenor; Carl Eberlein, second tenor; Jack Merrill, baritone and Kenneth Konopka, basso. Besides doing programs on the radio, the quartette has presented numbers for the various city high schools as well as University convocations and May Day.

DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION

Drama loving students find an outlet for their hidden ambition through the productions directed through the efforts of the Association and Mr. Barnhart.

During such a production, one backstage will hear a dressing room door bang and a half dozen voices chorus sh-h-h—! The curtain is up and the show has already begun. Half the characters are on the stage and the others are putting finishing touches to makeup and costumes. The odor of cold cream and heavy cosmetics thickens the air. Cleansing tissues and spilled powder, owner-less shoes and odd pieces of clothing deserted in haste, clutter the floor.

"Ernestine!" a voice shouts, "I've got a rip!"

"All right, all right. Don't get impatient." Ernestine takes her thimble and needle to the unfortunate male.

Two characters leave and a minute later the male lead strides into the room. A quick change and he is gone again.

Commotion reigns when the act ends. People pour into the dressing room until there is barely space to move. Disjointed phrases fight in the air. "Anna, where is the brown liner? We've got a swell house tonight . . . Lelah, get Stanley some warm water. . . . Oh, look at Louie's wig! . . . Gee, Helen, those curtains look swell—but those flowers! and say, tell John to move that chair a little more up-stage—and while you're up there, get Ted. I want him. . . . Check makeup now, people. Places!"

Entrances and exits, crosses and business, lines and gestures are all the same for every show.

A great desire to make the first production of the year a success filled the cast of Molnar's "The Swan." Backstage during "The Taming of the Shrew" by Shakespeare, was reminiscent—in the joy of the players in their costumes—of childhood barn shows and grandmother's clothes. "Counsellors-at-Law," by Elmer Rice, received a great concentration of energy because of the difficult character portrayals.

Each show has its individual characteristics, but for them all, the excitement, the tenseness, the atmosphere, are the same.

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW

All the vigor and fun of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" bounded into the cast of this play when it was first presented on the University stage in February. A capricious, stormy Kathrina was Ruth Hartman, and a dashing, braggadocio Petruchio, Stanley Gould. Velvet caps and satin gowns brought to life the spirit of another age, while period furniture and Old English scenery made the setting.

Although three centuries old, "The Taming of the Shrew" proved as successful as many a modern comedy.

THE SWAN

Some of the beauty and splendor of Molnar's romantic comedy, "The Swan," has been caught in these pictures. Subtle, gay and satiric, "The Swan" mocked the trials of mythical royalty in coming to successful ends in match-making, and sympathized with an unhappy pair of lovers who could not stay together. With easy grace, the cast of the play caught the charm of the drama and held it for the admiration of the audience.

Especially were noticed the beautiful sets and costumes of "The Swan"—the well-handled long scenes—the exactness of characterizations.

Silhouetted in low relief against the evening sky are Scott Hall, Tucker Hall, and the Student Union Building. Their newness is mellowed by the shadows of a dying day.

At this hour the faculty members may find repose, and turn their thoughts from lecture notes and class problems to nameless reverie.

Stately and magnificent stands University Tower against the darkness of night. At this time University halls are silent, students have laid aside their studies and are rushing about town to dances . . . to shows . . . to fraternity and sorority meetings.
